

For members of the independent turnaround and restructuring community

In turbulent times like these, we in the restructuring community know very well that independent turnaround professionals can provide a platform for stability and recovery. At KPMG we have been working closely with independent executives for many years and make regular introductions to our clients. We see you, as key to ensuring we have Turnaround and Restructuring service capability, capacity and value to offer our clients in every scenario.

In some circumstances, you may be the best option for a particular client situation or what our clients are specifically looking for. In other cases, a combination of our team and you working collaboratively together may offer the best outcome for our clients.

When you take a client opportunity offered through KPMG's Executive Solution team, you can go forward in the knowledge that you have the support of our firm's full service capability across all functions standing ready and available behind you, if you need us.

You can also be assured that there will be no requirement on you to navigate your way through the KPMG firm. The Executive Solutions team will be there as a readily available point of contact to connect you to whatever support you need.

As a further investment in you when joining our Executive Solutions network, we will pair you with a Partner or Director in our Restructuring team and they will be an informal point of contact for consultation, for market intelligence or just to stay in touch.

We also offer our Executive Solution members networking opportunities throughout the year alongside access to our Thought Leadership seminars, discussing the key emerging issues for the restructuring professional in today's market.
